Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1,4-8,11-15,18-22 and 25-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bunn et al. (US 2003/0142345) in view of Yokoyama (US 2003/0137954).

Regarding claim 1, Bunn teaches a system for printing documents from a portable device (102), comprising: print request receiver means (printer 106 via print by reference 128) adapted for receiving a print request from an associated portable data device, wherein the print request includes reference data (e.g., URL) representative of an electronic document stored in a location other than the portable data device (archive file 132); testing for a first data connection type between the mobile client device and document processing device (para. 13 last two lines); document data receiver means (the proxy server 180 transmits the archive file to the printer 106); formatting means (remote print service 156 renders the content into printer-ready format); and communicating means (remote print service 156 transmits the rendered document to the printer; para. 21). Claim 8 is the corresponding method of claim 1 and is rejected for the same reasons as above.

Bunn fails to specifically disclose testing for an alternative connection type between the portable and the document processing device when the step of testing indicates that the first data connection type is unavailable; and selecting a data connection type in accordance with at least one of the steps of testing.

Yokoyama teaches a printing (via printer 101) from a mobile device (104) wherein when Bluetooth radio communication has already been established and the radio communication with the mobile device is impossible, the printing device requests alternative processing (paras. 74-75).

Bunn could be modified with the alternative processing as taught by Yokoyama. This modification would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention for the purpose of allowing greater flexibility when it is desired to print.

Regarding claim 4, Bunn teaches that the mobile device may transmit security information to gain access to a secure web page (para 23 last line). Claim 11 is the corresponding method of claim 4 and is rejected for the same reasons as above.

Regarding claims 5 and 12, please note para. 12, lines 8-11.

Regarding claim 6, the print-by-reference (128) is an application. Claim 13 is the corresponding method of claim 6 and is rejected for the same reasons as above.

Regarding claim 3, Bunn teaches spooling the page description language document to the printer (106; para. 15).

Regarding claim 7, the print-by-reference (128) application operates on the mobile device (102). Claim 14 is the corresponding method of claim 7 and is rejected for the same reasons as above.

Regarding claims 15,18-22 and 25-28, the method of Bunn may be embodied in software or code (fig. 3, para 26).

3. Claims 10 and 24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Bunn et al. in view of Yokoyama as applied to claims 1,8 and 22 above, and further in view of Nakagiri et al. (US 6924826).

Regarding claims 10 and 24, Bunn in view of Yokoyama fail to specifically disclose that the data is spooled prior to being formatted.

Nakagiri teaches document data that is generated from an application program wherein the data is spooled into an intermediate code before it is converted into a printer control command (fig. 3).

Bunn in view of Yokoyama could be modified to spool the data before it is formatted for printing as taught by Nakagiri. This modification would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention for the purpose of being able to edit the spooled data before it is formatted for the printer.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 2,3,9,16,17 and 23 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Kimberly A. Williams whose telephone number is (571) 272-7471. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday through Friday.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Edward L. Coles can be reached on (571) 272-7402. The fax phone number for the organization where this application or proceeding is assigned is 571-273-8300.
